Items of Local Interest.

The colored boys who went north last Spring, are coming in to spend the winter lounging around, and eating off their parents.

To Teachers.
Mrs. Lewis Walker asks the trustees to come in and get notices for election. The law requires them to be put up, so attend to this at once.

Don't forget that the ladies of the Baptist church will serve ices and cakes in room below Record office door Saturday from 2 to 6 o'clock. Proceeds for church. Admission 15cts.

The Fur To Fly.
Judge Saufly and Congressman Gilbert are billed for speeches at court house Monday. Come in and hear them. They invite their opponents, so a big wool-pulling will doubtless be had. Come in, hear, then pick your man.

A Mule Suicides.
The large, bay mule, which has been pulling the delivery wagon for Mr. Adams, the up-to-date meat man, ended his life yesterday by falling and breaking his neck. Mr. Adams says the mule has been somewhat despondent for several days, and had little to say to any one.

Hauling Water.
The mill, electric light plant and Sweeney's livery stable have been hauling water for some time, all the cisterns being dry, or too low to spare water for stock. The light plant had to close down at ten o'clock for several nights.

Back From New York.
Danville Advocate—Miss Minnie Eastham has returned from New York where she purchased a complete line of the fall fashions in millinery goods. She has secured Miss Nannie Warren, an expert trimmer of Cincinnati, to assist her. The date of the opening will be announced a few days later.

Glee Club.
Harrodsburg cor. to Danville News: The Harrodsburg Lyceum Course will begin September 17th, with the appearance of the Chicago Glee Club. This club was on the program for last winter and was usually well received here and will be welcomed again most heartily. At Lancaster court-house Saturday night, Sept. 20. The court room will be comfortable.

Big Sale of Hogs.
Victor Lear sold to Lawson & Fox 209 hogs, which averaged 240 pounds at seven cents. Mr. Lear fed all the hogs, and they were about the prettiest lot delivered in this section.

CHANCE OF A LIFE TIME

It behooves Garrard County to Put Forth Every Effort Now. The Railroad in Our Grasp.

As Danville people had asked a hearing of the Louisville Commercial Club in which they were to set out the whys and wherefores in their favor, a lot of progressive Lancaster citizens concluded to also lay their claim before the Louisville people and show them that they are still in the fight for the Southern extension and why Louisville should stay out of the scramble. Consequently, a large delegation of our prominent business men made arrangements to go to Louisville yesterday, where they met the Louisville business men last night and showed them some of the many reasons why the Southern should be built through Garrard instead of paralleling its own road into Danville. As we go to press we have not heard what the Louisville people did, but what we want them to do is to keep hands off in this fight, to stay out of the game. We have Danville beaten, and their appeal to Louisville for aid is like the drowning man grasping at a straw. That road is coming this way, and as we have the thing clinched, what we want to do now is, finish up the few remaining miles of right of way, which is through territory easily secured, that is, which should be put in black and white, as is the two-thirds now signed for. The securing of this road means everything to Garrard county, as we have been preaching for several years, and now it is right in our grasp. Danville has made a hard fight, but she couldn't deliver the goods, that is she has not done so up to the hour of our going to press, and we will wager our hat she never does. Danville is expected to see to it that the company has no obstacles in Mercer county, if she is to be given the road, and—well, Mercer knows which side of her bread is buttered, so have no fears on that point.

Some one started the report in Louisville that "Lancaster was out of the fight." This led the Louisville people to throw a crumb of comfort to Danville husters in calling an open meeting of the Commercial Club. Mr. John Farr, to whom all the credit in this matter belongs, learned of the move, and went to Louisville, the result being that Lancaster was asked to be present and say her say. The delegation which went down last night is composed of men who are the leaders in Lancaster's business affairs, and its a safe bet they told our Louisville friends a thing or two. Louisville can not afford to take sides in this fight, and it stands to reason that no partiality will be shown, but they are business men of enough ability to see that the Lancaster route is the best for all concerned.

As much ado is being made over Louisville's attitude in the matter, we will give our readers the following letters, which were sent to Prest. Spencer at time they were written:

BOARD OF TRADE.
Louisville, Ky., Sept. 23, 1899.
Mr. Samuel Spencer, Esq., President, Southern Railway, New York, N.Y.
Dear Sir—We learn that a preliminary survey for the extension of the Southern Ry. has been made from Burgin to Jellico, Tenn., via Lancaster and Brodhead, Ky.
Upon investigation we are lead to believe that the survey made via Lancaster and Brodhead, on to Level Green and Jellico, is a most desirable route for freight and general business for the road. This section is practically undeveloped so far as railroad advantages are concerned, and it is a very rich agricultural section, producing wheat, corn, hemp, tobacco and live stock.
A road penetrating this section of Garrard county could practically have no competition, and would open up a vast amount of business for the road and the city of Louisville, which we are very desirous to have.
We trust, after your investigation of this line (via Lancaster) you will accept it. We heartily endorse everything that has been done by the people of Garrard county and Lancaster for the promotion of this enterprise.
Very truly yours,
(Signed) C. C. Mengel, President, COMMERCIAL CLUB.
Louisville, Ky., Jan. 1st, 1901.
Hon. Samuel Spencer, President, Southern Railway, 80 Broadway, New York.
Dear Sir—In view of the fact that the Southern Railway has just placed an engineering corps in the field on the Burgin Jellico extension we feel justified in calling attention to a matter which we think is of equal importance to the road and to the business interest of Louisville. From our knowledge of the situation, we are confident that the route from Burgin through Garrard Co. via Lancaster on the Southern connections at or near Jellico will be an ideal route, as far as business both to your road and to the merchants of Louisville. It opens up a portion of Kentucky, now practically undeveloped which would yield a vast revenue of traffic to the road and would bring the people of that section in closer business relation to the merchants of Louisville. We are reliably informed that in the county of Garrard on this route, a saving of a mile or more can be made over the former preliminary survey as made by the Southern and a better grade secured. We feel a great interest in this matter and heartily endorse the people of Lancaster and Garrard county in what they have done, they being the first to propose this connection. If built this road would place us in more direct communication with the business interest of the whole town, and we respectfully request that you give this route your very careful consideration.

Yours truly,
Sam P. Jones, Pres't.

Next Monday is county court, and our collector will be on the streets. We trust those in arrears will arrange to pay him, as we need the money.

Scales Ready.
Mr. Adams tells us the scales at the stock yards have been repaired and are in perfect condition. He is well equipped now for stockmen.

Two Houses Burned.
The house of Frank Gastineau, at Hiattsville, was burned Saturday night about half the contents being saved. Sunday afternoon, the house of Will Goins, on Buckeye pike, was destroyed, only a portion of contents being saved.

Linen Shower.
The W. C. T. U. will give a "Linen Shower" at Mrs. Sam Haselden's Thursday afternoon for benefit of mountain schools. Come, and bring any article of clothing you can spare, old or new.

Putting In Heaters.
The Citizens National Bank is putting in a large furnace, which will heat both rooms and take the place of two stoves. The work being done by Mr. Wm. King, of Danville, an expert workman in that business. Mr. King will be here for a few days, and if you want any work in that line, will be glad to talk with you.

The Colored School.
Prof. Louis A. Leavell, principal, tells us the school will open next Monday, and a large attendance is promised. He is thoroughly equipped for the place, and is one of the best posted colored men in the state. The assistants are Isabelle Overstreet and Florence Adams.

Former Garrard County Man.
We had a most pleasant call from Mr. Wm. L. Collier, brother of Mr. Moses Collier. Mr. Collier left Garrard during the war and located in Illinois, where he has been very successful in farming and other business pursuits. Like "Uncle Mose," he is a big hearted, noble gentleman, and makes friends of all with whom he meets. He will return to his home in a few days.

Bro. Robinson Transferred.
Rev. Leonidas Robinson, whose transfer to Newport was mentioned in last issue, left for that place Saturday, his family going at the same time. We regret to part with Bro. Robinson, as he was a good worker for all that was good. He was especially fine in temperance work, and will be missed sadly by those who are opposed to whisky and blind tigers. THE RECORD wishes Bro. Robinson well in his new field.

Chief Rothwell Improving.
The many friends of Chief Samuel Rothwell will be glad to hear that he is improving, and his suffering is not so severe as last week. His leg is weighted and Dr. Kinnaird thinks he will fully recover from the fall. There is not a bigger hearted or cleverer man in Garrard county than "Big Injun," nor one in whom the general public feels more interest. He could have escaped from the fire without a scratch, but after reaching the stairway, he thought of our foreman, Tribble, and another young man sleeping in the building and went through flames to reach and save them. This noble act required his escaping thro' the window and making the jump which crippled him and almost cost his life. We read of such acts of bravery, but seldom have them brought to our door.

Why Stand Ye Idle?
We never look on the dark side of anything, if there is a spark of encouragement for the better, but we must confess that the prospects for the rebuilding of the hotel and opera house this fall are slim, quite slim. The company has never had a meeting, and we have been unable to learn anything of its intentions. As stated in last issue, the editor of this paper made up $1,600 in donations, and could have made it $2,500 if work had been commenced this fall, but the company held no meeting, and we concluded to rest on our oars. If all members of the company do not wish to rebuild, it seems that another company could be organized, as the investment could be made to pay, and pay well, provided the contracts for building were properly made and bonds for faithful performance of same be taken. Every one is painfully aware of the need of the buildings, and we are firmly convinced that a company could be organized in a very short time for that purpose. There is certainly enough interest felt in Lancaster's welfare to bring this about. Harem-scarem "investments," 44-11-44 skin games, 'Heres your chance to get rich' schemes and glib-tongued strangers ought to be given a wide berth until Lancaster gets an up-to-date hotel and opera house, and we believe we have enough public spirited citizens to bring this about.

Meeting Mexican War Veterans.

The National Association of Mexican War Veterans will hold their annual meeting at Paris, Ky. Sept. 25. All survivors of the Mexican War, their widows and children are invited to be present. Address Col. J. C. Craddock, Paris, Ky., or 1st Vice-Pres. W. S. McChesney, Lexington, Ky.

A Mistake.
The Harrodsburg Herald says that J. M. Rothwell, of this city, may have some trouble in his race by reason of having sent a challenge to Col. Ed. Gaither. It is true Mr. Rothwell and Col. Gaither did have a little misunderstanding at one time, but no challenge is in existence, and we know whereof we speak.

Well-Known Young Man.
Frank C. Tevis, aged twentyseven years, merchant at Lawrenceburg, died at the Holman House Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock of peritonitis. He was born in Madison county, and was a member of a well-known family of that county. He had been engaged in business about four years. Mr. Tevis was a prominent Mason, and was buried at Richmond Thursday with Masonic honors. He was a member of the Presbyterian church. His father, mother and a brother survive him. He was a nephew of Mesdames T. B. Walker, W. O. Rigney and B. F. Hudson, of this city.

Hurt in Runaway.
Danville Advocate—Mrs. Lizzie Rice, who resides about six miles from Danville on the Lancaster pike, had a very narrow escape from instant death Wednesday evening, while driving near the home of Mr. Churchill Yeager. The horse being frightened and started to run for an open gateway and succeeded in getting through himself, but the buggy caught and overturned by striking the side of the gate and Mrs. Rice was dragged a considerable distance under the overturned buggy before she succeeded in extricating herself. She sustained a very severe fracture of the right hip and was otherwise considerably bruised about the head and shoulders. Dr. Elliott, of Bryantville, attended her.

Shelby Tribble, of this office, who was injured in the Franklin Institute fire, is still at his mother's, in Richmond, but hopes to go to work in a few days. We have been having a hard row to hoe, but here is this issue, lacking in news, but we hope due allowance will be made. We could get another man, but those who are living around idle are not the kind we will permit in our office. All the good men are at work, and its hard to find a temporary printer. "Blacksmiths" are plentiful, but they are too expensive a "luxury" to have around the office.

Star Attraction.

From Somerset Journal:—On the 22nd, the first number of the Lyceum engagement, the Chicago Glee Club will appear in one performance. This will be their second appearance of the Gem, and no more elegant and pleasing musical entertainment will visit us during this season. At Lancaster Court-house, Sept. 20. Admission, 50, 35 and 25 cents.

Bradley's Words.

Louisville Commercial:—In his address to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen at Chattanooga on Monday, President Roosevelt said:

Yesterday in passing over the Chickamauga battle field I was immensely struck by the monument raised by Kentucky to the Union and Confederate soldiers from Kentucky who fell on that battle field. The inscription reads as follows:

"As we are united in life, and they united in death, let one monument perpetuate their deeds, and one people forgetful of all aspartan lies, forever hold in grateful remembrance all the glories of that fearful conflict which made all men free. A retained every star on the nation's flag."

That is a good sentiment. That is a sentiment by which we can all stand. And, oh, my friends, what does that sentiment have as its underlying spirit? The spirit of brotherhood. (Cheers and applause.)

I firmly believe in my countrymen, and, therefore, I believe that the chief thing necessary in order that they shall work together is that they shall know one another; that the northerner shall know the southerner, and the man of one occupation shall know the man of another occupation; the man who works in one walk of life know the man who works in another walk of life, so that we may realize that the things that divide us are superficial, are unimportant, and that we are and must ever be knit together into one indissoluble mass by our American manhood.

This inscription selected by the Kentucky commission that had charge of the erection of the monument was taken from Gov. Bradley's message to the Legislature in 1898, in which he recommended the appropriation of money for the erection of the monument. And it is a sentiment that has appealed to the best feeling of the best people in the country. Governor Bradley has been singularly happy in all his utterances on the subject that ever has been nearest his heart, "the old Kentucky home." Born in this State, a youth at the time of the great war, he was yet old enough to become inspired with a deep reverence for the loyalty of their convictions of the soldiers on both sides, and with pride in the splendid bravery of his fellow Kentuckians, whether they wore the blue or the gray.

And it was Gov. Bradley who first found the way to the actual reconciliation of the old antagonists by proclaiming the political gospel that as the gallant men who fought so well are united in death, so should the living Kentuckians be united in the perpetuation of the glory of their deeds, and in the devotion to the grand old State that gave them to the one or the other side in that stupendous struggle.

The applause that greeted the reading of these historic words from the heart of Kentucky's Republican Governor showed that the brave men who ride upon the locomotives were "immensely struck," as was the President with the noble words that have been written in the granite of Kentucky's monument on the Chickamauga battle field, as well as in the State papers of Gov. Bradley's administration, in the archives of Kentucky. They were good words; and no brave, manly, loyal American will ever pause before the monument to the brave dead of Kentucky's soldiers without feeling as President Roosevelt did, the thrill of their poetry and their patriotism.
